

Re: What happened to the forecast stall?

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.meteorology/2005-09/msg00116.html>

- From: Jim Korman <jkorman@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 27 Sep 2005 00:10:03 GMT
-

On Mon, 26 Sep 2005 08:20:24 -0500, Scott <ScottLWI@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

>
>I didn't really pay attention this week to Rita --- lots >of things going on closer to home --- but I do recall >dire predictions of a stall over AR and persistent >rain and flooding.
>
>How come that didn't happen?
>
>scott
The "Stall that didn't happen" was being forecast because the models were forecasting a ridge of high pressure roughly across Arkansas and Tennessee. As it turned out, said ridge failed to materialize, storm moved north. Good riddance!

Jim

.

- References:
 - ◆ What happened to the forecast stall?
 - ◇ From: Scott
- Prev by Date: Re: U.S. Meteorologist Says Russian Inventors Caused Hurricane Katrina
- Next by Date: Re: What happened to the forecast stall?
- Previous by thread: Re: What happened to the forecast stall?
- Next by thread: Re: What happened to the forecast stall?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread