I have a Garmin Legend and a Magellen Gold. The Legend has the acre measurement feature which is handy for me for farming. The Gold I use for trucking and I find the street and road maps are far superior to the Legend's (especially Canada). The screen is lots bigger too and easier to see when you're driving. The Gold also has the memory slot and with the bigger SD cards coming out I'll be able to put most of the US on one card. Uploading is a breeze with the SD cards. I don't think I'd do the trucking job without the Magellan and Streets and Trips. It just makes it so much easier to find addresses.
