Re: GPS 45, informations while running

Source: http://sci.tech−archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.satellite−nav/2004−10/1568.html

---

From: Dale DePriest (Dale_at_gpsinformation.het)
Date: 10/29/04

Date: Fri, 29 Oct 2004 16:06:22 −0700

Peter Bennett wrote:

> On 28 Oct 2004 12:26:58 −0700, tnorth@bluewin.ch (Thibault) wrote:
>
>
>>Hello,
>>I wanted to know if the GARMIN GPS 45 sent data via its cable while >>running, and if so, at which frequence and what. Is the protocol the >>same as the download/upload one ?
>>Thanks,
>>Thibault
>
>
> The Garmin 45 will output current position and other "live" navigation > data if set to output NMEA−0183.
>
>

And to continue with the answer, no the upload/download protocol is not the same. Garmin mode is used to upload/download tracks, waypoints, and routes while NMEA mode is used for real time tracking.

Dale

−−

```
     _       _      Dale DePriest
   /`) _  //       http://users.cwnet.com/dalede
 o/_/ (_(_X_(`     For GPS and GPS/PDAs
```