Where do you see the letters
"g" "p" "s" in the name of

You did bother to read the Subject: header?

Clearly not, so here we have a nice illustration:
SHOUTING ACTUALLY GETS YOU LESS ATTENTION,

Jan--Let me quietly tell you that when I post an announcement from a government source, I'm not likely to edit the title capitalization as it is a pain in the gazingus. I suggest you ignore such posts that I make or put me in a kill file.

Well no, Sam.
I truly appreciate your attempts,
and I do feel that there is a place in a public forum
for announcements of general utility.

However, I also think that whoever does so should respect his audience, and take some trouble selecting, editing, and explaining why the posting maybe of use.
You shouldn't just drag'ndrop.

After all, by posting in a public forum you are asking for attention.
And 'put me in a kill-file if you don't like it'
is a typical spammer's response.

Best ,

No, seriously, Jan, this newsgroup will likely be better off if you put me in your kill file. Then things will tend to get back to normal.
