

Re: how to compare the two image objects with different size?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.image.processing/2004-12/0170.html>

From: Ken Prager (prager_me__at_ieee.org)

Date: 12/28/04

Date: Tue, 28 Dec 2004 07:08:04 GMT

poultry, and vegetables; just about anything can be grilled, and young humans are no exception!

High quality marinade (Teriyaki and garlic perhaps)
1 inch cubes of tender meat, preferably from the nursery
Onions
bell peppers
Wooden or metal skewers

Marinate the meat overnight.
Get the grill good and hot while placing meat, vegetables, and fruit such as pineapples or cherries on the skewers.
Don't be afraid to use a variety of meats.
Grill to medium rare,
serve with garlic cous-cous and sautéed asparagus.
Coffee and sherbet for desert then walnuts, cheese, and port.
Cigars for the gentlemen (and ladies if they so desire)!

Crock-Pot Crack Baby

When the quivering, hopelessly addicted crack baby succumbs to death, get him immediately butchered and into the crock-pot, so that any remaining toxins will not be fatal. But don't cook it too long, because like Blowfish, there is a perfect medium between the poisonous and the stimulating. Though it may not have the same effect on your guests, a whole chicken cooked in this fashion is also mighty tasty.

1 newborn – cocaine addicted, freshly expired, cleaned and butchered
Carrots
onions
leeks celery
bell pepper
potatoes
Salt pepper

sci.image.processing: Re: how to compare the two image objects with different size?

garlic, etc
4 cups water

Cut the meat into natural pieces and brown very well in olive oil, remove, then brown half of the onions, the bell pepper, and celery.
When brown, mix everything into the crock-pot, and in 6 to 8 hours you have turned a hopeless tragedy into a heartw