

Re: Using $$$D$b (Bin my sign off...

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.lang.japan/2004-09/1664.html>

From: kouji ueshiba (ueshiba_at_mtc.biglobe.ne.jp)

Date: 09/19/04

Date: Sun, 19 Sep 2004 20:29:27 +0900

"gerankel" <gerankel@nospamearthlink.net> wrote in message news:1cbqk05169opp3q60q9ckchqaul8np111@4ax.com...

- > Hi,
- > Just wanted to explain a bit about using "itsumo" in my sign
- > off. I've always been something of a diehard romantic and using the
- > word "always" has always been my standard sign off in emails and
- > letters. When I started learning Japanese I latched onto the word
- > "itsumo" and started using it for my sign offs.
- > I know it's not a standard way to end letters in Japan and
- > among Japanese speakers. It's just a personal preference
- > on my part.
- >
- > $$$D$b!"%7%$%7%" (B

it's not a standard way to end letters in Japan $B$J$s$F (B
 $B$3$H$O5$$K$7$J$$!"5$$K$7$J$$!&!&!& (B
 $B!V$$$D$b??Yu!J$7$s$7!K$d!W$C$F$N$O!"0-$/J$$F|K\8l (B
 $B$G$9$h!J0l@#!" (BEdith Hanson $B$5$sIw$N4X@>J[$@$1$I!&!&!&K!# (B
 $B!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!>e!!<F!!8x!!Fs (B