

Re: The name of the typeface

Re: The name of the typeface

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.lang.japan/2005-06/msg01375.html>

- From: "John J. Chew, III" <jjchew@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 28 Jun 2005 14:03:47 -0400
-

Sean wrote:

John J. Chew, III wrote:

Sean wrote:

How about "All true propositions that can be proven to be true are tautologies."

Yeah, that sounds like a tautology to me.

The proposition itself sounds like a tautology? It's like one of them a priori deals? Cool.

I was being clever. If you accept your own proposition, then calling it a tautology is tantamount to accepting the possibility that it is true and provable. If you accept the converse of your proposition, then of course I've just said that it's true.

Everything I've been taught is a taughtology.

Was your teacher a tortoise?

John

--

John Chew (poslfit on MD) * jjchew@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx * <http://www.poslfit.com>

.