According to examples i've found the name of Takako can be spelled with two different kanjis put on a P as well as with katakana (one example). On the top of that, my IME gave me a fourth suggestion.

So, how do we spell that (or any other, for that matter) name if we're not entirely sure how to get it right? Do we try "at wild" and then read the red carnation of the person how mad he/she got with us?

Ambition – a poor excuse for not having enough sense to be lazy
