You could be right.

I don't know the guy, but here's the source page :

<http://www.laputa-jp.com/laputa/program/jazz04/>

(Actually, I'm reading it from a pamphlet I picked up at the cinema in 2004), but the webpage contains the same information.

There are a bunch of webpages which refer to うྂP rather than •うྂP. So if it's an error by exclusion, then it's an error which has spread (which is a likely scenario).

Thanks for contributing. I take this guy is a pop star ?

うྂP

I couldn't find this name (either as a whole or in parts) in JMnedict.

I tried a Google search, which turns up a number of pages of the two films this actor made, but I'm looking for the pronunciation, in either kana or romaji.

My guess would be it's •うྂP and you've somehow lost the •.
In which case it's Ide Jyoji.
