Sorry Ben.... My bad. It wasn't Dave. I got my names confused in the thread.

I just ran through this thread very quickly. Whatever it is, it is not a good idea to talk to your wife by yourself since you don't seem to have a good communication skill. Can you get someone who can be completely neutral? This person is not able to save the marriage, but this person can prevent from the conversation being ugly. Usually, nobody wants to do that so, be warned.

When a Japanese person has to speak English in such a delicate situation, never rush or push or give her a hard time. She's got to relax before she speaks foreign language decently.
