I'm Japanese college student. Now, I'm looking for language exchange partner who is native speaker of English. I want to do speaking practice. So, I plan to use Windows Live Messenger and microphone when we talk. If you interested in this language exchange, feel free to mail me. I'd be grad if you write profile and what do you want to study about Japanese language.

thank you

Not sure if you guys have seen this website -- www.italki.com

It seems like you can find language partners pretty quickly on it. I registered, and got a bunch of invitations. It's pretty easy to start chatting and get people's contact info. Right now it's mainly Chinese people on the site, so English (or other) speakers have an advantage in finding people to study with.
