Support for Victorian ALP at Record Level in February

Finding No. 3716 – March 06, 2004

During February, primary support for the Victorian Government rose 5% to 53%, the highest level recorded since the Party was returned to power in November 2002. Support for the Liberal Party fell 3% to 31.5%, the latest Morgan Poll finds. On a two-party preferred basis, support for the ALP rose 4% to 62.5% with the Liberal Party at 37.5% (down 4%). If a Victorian State election had been held in February, the ALP would have increased their majority and won in a landslide.

Amongst the minor parties, primary support for the National Party was 2% (unchanged), the Greens 6.5% (down 2.5%), the Australian Democrats 3% (up 1.5%) and Other Parties and Independent Candidates 4% (down 1%).

During the polling period:

a.. The political agenda focused on Federal ALP leader Mark Latham's proposed changes to politicians' superannuation.

b.. National Australia Bank chief executive Frank Cicutto resigned in the wake of the $360 million rogue currency trading scandal.

c.. The State Opposition claimed that Steve Bracks' promise that taxpayers will not fund operating costs of the Synchrotron, a scientific research tool under construction in Clayton, would not be kept. Deputy Opposition Leader Phil Honeywood said Synchrotron project adviser John Neve told a Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal hearing that only 10 per cent of operating costs would be met by fees from private industry users. Mr Bracks said he was confident of shoring up the required funding and maintained that Victorian taxpayers would not meet operating costs, and that the money would come from other sources, such as federal and state governments and universities.

d.. The Australian Democrats cut back the party's Victorian operations following slumping party membership and deteriorating finances. Democrats state secretary Fred Carter also cast doubt on the State division's ability to get bank finance for the federal election campaign.

Special Roy Morgan Qualitative Research in which respondents gave their reason for voting was conducted on February 14/15, 2004.

ALP supporters were typically satisfied with the Victorian Government's performance and with Premier Steve Bracks, and also made comments such as "for the average person" and "for the workers" and "I'm satisfied with what they are doing at the moment." Other ALP supporters preferred the Party's policies to those of the Liberal Party.

Some Liberal Party supporters expressed dissatisfaction with the Bracks Government, and particularly with Steve Bracks. " Bracks is useless, the State has not progressed as much as it could have under Labor" said one respondent. " I think Bracks is wasting a lot of our money." said another. A number of Liberal supporters felt that the ALP had not kept their promises. Comments such as " Labor have messed around and not come through on promises " were typical of this view.

The Labor Party's association with unions was another source of dissatisfaction for some Liberal Party supporters, who made comments such as "I don't like Labor because they are too union oriented" and "Unions are killing tradesmen".

Preferences of supporters of the Greens (ALP – 80.5% cf Lib. – 19.5%), the Australian Democrats (ALP. – 68.5% cf Lib – 31.5%) and supporters of Other Parties and Independent Candidates (ALP. – 57% cf Lib – 43%) and all favoured the ALP
State Government.

This latest Morgan Poll on Victorian State Voting Intention was conducted face-to-face among 918 electors throughout Victoria on the weekends of February 2004.
Electors were asked: "If a State election were being held today – which Party would receive your first preference?"
