

Re: Related languages (Re: A China–Sumer connection)

Source: <http://sci.tech–archive.net/Archive/sci.lang/2005–03/3758.html>

---

From: Comm (no_at_spam.com)

Date: 03/30/05

Date: Wed, 30 Mar 2005 01:20:38 GMT

"Peter T. Daniels" <grammatim@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:4249DCE7.1F6F@worldnet.att.net...

> Comm wrote:

>>

>> "António Marques" <m.ap@sapo.pt> wrote in message >> news:4249a2ac$0$22623$a729d347@news.telepac.pt...

>> > Comm wrote:

>

>> >> I didn't say that. You did. Learn to read more carefully.

>> >

>> > You've repeated that accusation in the past, only to be found out that >> > everyone had it the same as I did.

>>

>> That's because you copy each other.

>

> No, it is because you do not think before you write, and you do not > reread your writing to be sure it says what you intend.

>

>> Here, for the LAST time:

>>

>> 1. Dominican Republic friend can speak all kinds of HISPANIC, included in >> that, even according to her, is Brazilian and Portuguese. She speaks

>> some

>> Italian, enough to get buy, because she MARRIED an Italian speaking guy

>> and >> learned it from hearing it spoken by her husband and his father who >> speaks >> very poor English. HE is from an Italian speaking houshold. SHE >> married >> into that and lived there with them. She speaks NO French. She speaks

>> SOME

>> English, enough to chat on the beach about very ordinary things.

>>

>> 2. Polish friend is from French Canada, lived in France. HE speaks

>> French,

>> Polish, Russian and English.

>>

>> > Have you or have you not claimed to >> > have a 'hispanic' friend who understands all kinds of 'hispanic' and >> > italian, and an italian friend who understands spanish and french >> > without having studied them?

>>

>> NO. Again, you mixed it up – one did it, and the rest of you drones >> followed. I was very VERY clear. My Italian friend, the husband of my >> girlfriend, speaks enough Spanish to explain complex things to an >> immigrant – HE LEARNED IT, STUDIED IT. He speaks NO French. The only >> person that speaks French is the Polish guy.

>

> How can you not see that (1) above ("Dominican Republic friend") is the > person Antonio is asking about -- who in your last paragraph you now > deny exists?

You are provably really stupid, so incredibly stupid that I don't know how you get by to tie your damned shoes:

LOURDES is from the Dominican Republic. LOURDES speaks all kinds of Spanish from Spain, Mexican, etc etc. Brazilian, Portuguese – has no problem modifying speech when speaking TO people from these places. To her, it's just like changing your accent a bit. I asked. She said "little different ACCENT." She never said "different language."

That would agree with what FABIO says when he speaks to different people in a language that HE ALSO says is pretty much the same, different accent. His lover refers to that as "flourishes."

LOURDES married Peter whose father is Leo. Leo and Peter speak Italian in the home. LOURDES says that her English is better than her Italian – but she can speak some Italian to them. To her, Italian IS a different language. That her English is better than her Italian when she's been living with Italian speaking people is NOTED.

PETER learned Spanish, so he can speak to Lourdes in Spanish.

STANLEY is Polish. He's old. He's lived in France and settled for a long time in French Canada. He speaks Polish, French and still speaks Russian.

> --

> Peter T. Daniels grammatim@att.net