You seem to have little estimation for Europe, and you are right insofar as we are following double standards: wealth and security and freedom for us, nice words of peace and justice for others, and may the Americans protect us forever. On the other hand, Yoorp has contributed a lot to America, and still many bright young people leave our continent for yours. If you don't like us, you are entitled to that, and you may despise our "langwidges" as well, however, then you should be more consequent. How about returning the Statue of Liberty, for it was a French present to the USA? and how about replacing the French root "langue" in language with English tongue? So please don't say language anymore, and stop posting to sci.lang. Use tongue from now on, and post to a new group by the name of sci.tong, easily to be founded via Google.
