It looks damn fine to me. I can follow the number of >> to see who wrote what.

Not if you can actually count, you can't, because your newsreader is lying. The first level of quoting should have one quote chevron, not two. What's up there looks as if there should be a response between my message

<1gy9ece5bu1jx.mj3l5zl4m3nk$.dlg@xxxxxxxxxx> and your post to which I am now responding, and of course there isn't one. It should look like this:

Your newsreader is inserting one quote–chevron too many every bloody time, and I'm getting tired of fixing it manually every bloody time.

Oh, and if it were working properly, you could dispense with the damned 'X wrote:' lines.
