Yes, the hoovers.
Or luxes, beyond your eastern borders.

What exactly do you mean by that last remark?

"Nothing sucks like an Electrolux."

In the 1960s, the Swedish Electrolux company successfully marketed vacuums in the United Kingdom with the slogan "Nothing sucks like an Electrolux." British consumers took the slogan literally because "sucks" as a term of disparagement is strictly an Americanism.

And English suck is related to Serbian sisa (teat), sika (teat, woman breast) and verb sisati (suck);

Some of the Serbian folk-etymologists believe that the name Deutsche-n (Dutch) has been adopted according to the Serbian personal name Doychin (derived from the Serbian noun dojka /breast, teat/) and the verb doyiti (breast-feed).

Serbian name Doychin has the same meaning as other Serb. words like 'doyenche' (baby), dechak/dyechak (boy) and dete/diyete (child). They also say that dete or dijete is an equivalent to the name of Teutons and that the Illyrian queen Teuta bore the Serbian female form of the masculine name Doychin/Dyechak/Dijete. ;-)

Oh yes. Serbian is the father and mother of all languages. All the other languages of the world are just debased pidgin Serbian. Serbs!

Re: Dust-sucker [Was: Re: Armenian, Sumerian, Burushaski, and Turkic languages]

The lords of the Earth, the masters of the universe! Hail to the Serb!

Has it ever occurred to you, Douchie, that you sound both pathetic and ridiculous?

FogLoony, I do not understand why you are so hypersensitive at the mere mentioning of the Serbian name.

Serbs were slaves for centuries (a little less than Finns) and they are herded now in the porch of the "extinction chamber" (known as "self-inflicted depopulation through the infertile copulation") that would replace them with the more resilient race like Albanians (their women are birth machines).

What is the birth rate in Finland? You'd better forbid the male marriages before Shqips come there and fuck you all!
