Excellent question. the general procedure would be to monitor some closed system and detect if any information has been introduced from the future. This is usually detecting a surplus of coincidences that shouldn't happen locally.

The Truman company monitors me 24/7 with audio capable spy satellites, every day they will notice some amazing coincidence, the avenues are endless. Whatever I write about on usenet each day will be a key feature on television that night, as if it was laid out for me to write and do those things.

Why is the most famous billionaire named Bill? Was he destined to be a billionaire?

Lady Di? was she destined to die?

sci.logic: Re: The Road with no Branches argument

Ronald Raygun, was he destined to set up satellite laser star wars systems?

Cantor? was he destined to disprove counters of reals?

Godel? was he destined to prove the unprovable?

Tutam Kham? Toomb?

Michelangelo? was he born to paint angels?

No one admits seeing any relationship here. Tiger Woods? was he destined to play golf?

I have 1000 examples of this, any statistics major could examine the replies I get on google, Barb Knox tells me to knock on doors, David Ullrich tells me how rich he will be, Rich Shewmaker tells me to see the rich show-maker James Randi...
