On past holidays of 7Nov and 14Dec I usually posted a song such as Handels Messiah of Hallejulah only the words changed to AtomPlutonium. Or Silent-Night becomes Science Night or Rock-of-Ages becomes "Atom plutonium, fissioned for me, let me show myself in thee. But music, although stirring and emotional wanes as we get older and the message of serious spoken words becomes more important than the stirrings of music. Like a bicycle can be the centerpiece of a youths focus of attention but as we get older we seldom ride the bicycle anymore. The same with music in that the passion of music should be a youthful activity and participation but as we get older we should be growing up and out of music.

But this year I will change in celebrating the 2 holiest days of the year with a sermon.

And the sermon on my mind today involves two things that have reached my attention. One is ORDER and the other is what is special about USA history that built this great country but that now seems to be in a decay mode. I will speak of the first, first because Order transcends far beyond the details of USA history.

ORDER

This is not the first time I have lectured or sermonized on order for it forms a folder in my website of www.iw.net/~a_plutonium under the section of religion.

Order, I feel, is the key to Happiness. Unless we have order in our physical life— gutters fixed, cars running swell, family relations smooth and no strife, work and job going smoothly, health in order, etc etc then we are happy.

Happiness is order. I remember the last time I talked about Order as equivalent to happiness someone replied saying that a criminal locked up disproves the idea that order is happiness. I rejoindered to the contrary, that a crimiminal has a mind that he or she is unable to control and place order into that mind and so society thus and thereby locks the criminal or puts to death the criminal because that is the Order that they crave.

If each and every one of us examines why we do things the way we do things it is clear to me that ORDER is the guiding principle, whether it is physical order such as the physical sciences or whether it is emotional order or feeling—order or social order or medical order. When we are unhappy and sad is because there is a spot in the universe that is lacking order.

Me personally: in the past weeks I have found that on those days that I am the m
