Relativists love and fiercely teach the equation

$$f' = f(1 + V/c^2) \text{ ??? ? ? ? /1/}$$

which shows how the light frequency (f) varies with the gravitational potential (V). Relativists do not love but still admit the truth of the equation

where c is the speed of light and L is the wavelength. Finally, relativists hate and often declare wrong the equation

$$c' = c(1 + V/c^2) \text{ ??? ? ? ? ? /3/}$$

although this particular equation is perhaps Einstein's greatest discovery (made in 1911) and is an obvious corollary of the true equations /1/ and /2/.

Why are relativists behaving so mysteriously? Equation /3/ shows how the speed of light varies in the presence of a gravitational field. In the absence of a gravitational field Einstein's equivalence principle converts equation /3/ into where v is the relative speed of the light source and the observer. Equation /4/ acts like the face of Medusa the Gorgon: on seeing it, relativists get petrified. They do not wish this to happen and, for that reason, declare Einstein's greatest discovery, the 1911 equation $c' = c(1 + V/c^2)$, wrong.

$$c' = c + v \text{ ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? /4/}$$
