Where was it that Leibniz defined necessary truth as truth in all possible worlds?

Tia.

"He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord, and shall be repaid," said Mrs Fairchild, hastily slipping a shilling into the poor woman's hand.

I doubt if he ever did,

He only remarked that this world the best of all possible worlds was.

I don't really think if he made points like of the non-existence of round squares in other possible worlds.

It was more his way of praising God.

But I haven't really studied Leibniz, so I may be wrong.
