

Re: copper-graphite connections

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.materials/2005-09/msg00004.html>

- From: steve <steve@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 01 Sep 2005 07:48:38 +0100
-

Michael Gray wrote:

>>Is one milliohm good ?
>
>
> Not for 2sq"
> Try putting some conductive silver paste between, and see what you > get.

Hi Michael,
Do you mean something like a conductive "ink" like they use to repair PCB tracks and window de-misters ? I have some of that,

Thanks

Steve

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: copper-graphite connections
 - ◇ From: Michael Gray
- References:
 - ◆ Re: copper-graphite connections
 - ◇ From: Michael Gray
- Prev by Date: Re: New Material Harder Than Diamond
- Next by Date: Re: New Material Harder Than Diamond
- Previous by thread: Re: copper-graphite connections
- Next by thread: Re: copper-graphite connections
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread