

Re: AFA-B NOMINATION: Re: The mathematics of Christmas

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2004-12/10401.html>

From: The Ghost In The Machine (ewill_at_sirius.athghost7038suus.net)

Date: 12/25/04

Date: Sat, 25 Dec 2004 16:01:30 GMT

In sci.math, Chadwick Stone©

<m0rphed@m0rphed.m0rphed>

wrote

on Sat, 25 Dec 2004 12:51:13 GMT

<5ndzd.1481748$SM5.118214@news.easynews.com>:

> X-No-Archive: YES

> "Meat Plow" <meat@insurgent.org> wrote in message > news:pan.2004.12.25.11.59.39.515738@insurgent.org...

>> On Fri, 24 Dec 2004 21:00:50 -0700, Art Deco wrote:

>>

[snip |—|erc's stuff for brevity]

>>> I think this another one long overdue. I'll nominate Herc >>> for the AFA-B Angstrom Award and Medal for Advances in >>> Hyperdelusional Physics (in honor of Richard CEEEE Hoagland).

>>> Is there a second?

>>>

>>> I can't second it. Nobody is that fucked up in real life, it's >>> got to be a troll. Right?

>>>

>>> This guy is... and he believes the shit he spews. Remember >>> his "I'm the Truman" spamfest where he said he could guess

>>> the real names of people using posting aliases (failed in >>> every attempt btw) He rears his head every several months >>> with a new schtick, is soundly spanked, and runs off to nurse >>> his wounds.

I still have his attempt at telepathy archived at my website, though I need to put a link from my frontpage thereon. (In fact, I really need to redo the entire website.)

<http://home.earthlink.net/~ewill3/psychic>

Basically, I developed a Gtk applet/servlet/somethinglet thing that sat on my panel (bottom of the desktop in Gnome), containing a random 20-digit number.

Somehow, |-|erc counted it as a victory after missing 5 out of 10 guesses on the first digit (which was actually a 1). I had to give up because of a 2.2 => 2.4 kernel switchover (I'm not entirely sure what I did now).

If it is a victory, it's a Pyrrhic one.

[.sigsnip]

--
#191, ewill13@earthlink.net
It's still legal to go .sigless.