

Re: WSJ article on Pi Day

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2005-03/5158.html>

From: Angus Rodgers (angus_prune_at_bigfoot.com)

Date: 03/15/05

Date: Tue, 15 Mar 2005 15:46:02 +0000

On 15 Mar 2005 06:07:19 -0800, "MrPepper11"

<MrPepper11@go.com> wrote:

>March 15, 2005

>If Pious Revelry Gets You Down, Calculate the Joys of Pi Day

>By JUNE KRONHOLZ

>Staff Reporter of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

>

>Figure this: yesterday was Pi Day. March 14, the third month, 14th day.

>As in 3.14, roughly the ratio of a circle's circumference to its >diameter. One lucky number with its own celebration. [...]

It's also Einstein's birthday. Spooky, isn't it?

Google "albert einstein born": 506,000 results.

"albert einstein born -max": 353,000 results. :)

--

Angus Rodgers

(angus_prune@ eats spam; reply to angusrod@)

Contains mild peril