Thank you James,

The world is a good place and it is good to be living these interesting times. I am sorry if I was too rough to You during these last days of your SFT brainstorming. It is newer a shame to try, in fact the intellectual curiosity is one of the key reasons for humans to ever become dominate species. You are (only) a Human.

If You dare, I repeat the suggestion that you once more consider collecting / writing that book, because you obviously write so well that you have managed to obtain and bind your Usenet audience more effectively than anyone before You. Also You have thousands of pages good copyrighted duels, insults, attacks, jokes and equations. An unique collection – ready to be collected. Peace.

What do regulars say: "Would you like to see James writing a book, for example about his adventures here on Usenet sci.math?"

Kind Regards
Juuso Hukkanen
