

Re: Serge Lang dead

---

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2005-09/msg04017.html>

---

- From: sean.westmoreland@xxxxxxxxxx
  - Date: 23 Sep 2005 04:52:42 -0700
-

Hi,

The news of Serge's death has been pretty slow to spread; other than the YDN obit, I've been alerted to this: <http://www.NewAidsReview.com>

All accounts are that Lang's health had been in decline for a while, at least as far back as last year when he made the surprising (to many of us) decision to retire. But I have a report from at least one grad student who saw Serge 11 Sept., vigorous as ever and outpacing his companion on a walk down the street.

The Yale Math dept. apparently is arranging a memorial of some type for late October/early November.

If I learn anything more of substance, I'll be happy to pass it along.

Sean Westmoreland

Julien Santini wrote:

- > Dear group members,
- >
- > Does anyone have more info about the death of Serge Lang ? --announced
- > at the following link :( --
- >
- > http://www.math.yale.edu/public\_html/index.html
- >
- > --
- > Julien Santini

---

• References:

- ◆ Serge Lang dead
◇ From: Julien Santini

- Prev by Date: Re: infinity
- Next by Date: Re: Integration of  $x^n * \text{Exp}[-x^2]$

Re: Serge Lang dead

- Previous by thread: Re: Serge Lang dead
- Next by thread: Re: Serge Lang dead
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread