

Re: JSH: SF: Finally, surrogate factoring

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2006-06/msg01164.html>

- From: Rick Decker <rdecker@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 07 Jun 2006 13:27:39 -0400
-

Jesse F. Hughes wrote:

Rick Decker <rdecker@xxxxxxxxxxxxx> writes:

You missed my point. Until recently I thought that it was James' narcissism that motivated his jaw-dropping refusal to see that there was nothing new in his prime-counting function. Now, though, I have come to the view that he's lacking an important faculty that all mathematicians have. It's pitiful, really.

You mean that his brain is wired differently?

Yeah, what a novel claim that is.

Geez! Tough room. Okay, I give up. :-)

Regards,

Rick

.