

Re: Legal Complaints against sci.math?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2007-08/msg02535.html>

- From: Proginoskes <CHeckman@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 16 Aug 2007 08:06:53 -0000
-

On Aug 14, 1:02 am, Virgil <vir...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

In article <1187075846.402604.286...@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>,

Proginoskes <CHeck...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

On Aug 14, 12:12 am, Proginoskes <CHeck...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

On Aug 12, 11:12 pm, "Dear Leader" <spaml...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

"Proginoskes" <CHeck...@xxxxxxxx>
wrote in message
news:1186984532.987254.88340@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

When browsing sci.math
with Google Groups tonight,
the following sentence appeared at the bottom of one of the pages:

In response to legal complaints
we received,
we have removed some messages. If you wish,

Re: Legal Complaints against sci.math?

you may read the legal
complaints.

and there was a link
to <http://www.chillingeffects.org/notice.cgi?sID=3809>

So ... Who? What? When?
Why?

Any ideas?

JSH: postings, James is now paying for this service to remove other people's posts that disagree with his math.

I searched the C&D archives but couldn't find anything relevant to
"JSH" or "Harris". Maybe it hasn't been processed yet?

I also tried searching for "Archie", but it doesn't appear that he's filed a motion, either. (Recently, he got paranoid and thought that his posts were being censored, by Chinese scientists who disagree with him about the Poincare Conjecture. Turns out Google Groups just "burped".)

For those of you who want to keep watch, there were five "cease and desist" notices, which had the following links:

Re: Legal Complaints against sci.math?

<http://www.chillingeffects.org/notice.cgi?sID=3809>

<http://www.chillingeffects.org/notice.cgi?sID=3803>

<http://www.chillingeffects.org/notice.cgi?sID=3805>

<http://www.chillingeffects.org/notice.cgi?sID=3807>

<http://www.chillingeffects.org/notice.cgi?sID=3808>

Each of these tells me that the citation in question is not et available.

Update: The links now state what kind of complaint it is: "DMCA [Digital Millennium Copyright Act] (Copyright) Complaint to Google"

<speculation>I've seen a lot of recent posts about "solution manuals for X textbook"; this might be it.</speculation>

--- Christopher Heckman

.