

Re: Thread deleted from Google Groups Re: JSH: Your funeral

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2007-09/msg03834.html>

---

- From: Rotwang <sg552@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Mon, 17 Sep 2007 16:14:41 -0700
-

On 18 Sep, 00:08, James Burns <burns...@xxxxxxx> wrote:

Dear sci.math denizens:

I was wasting time on Google Groups when I noticed that most of the thread I'm referencing, "JSH: Your funeral", has been deleted, back to Sept 11.

I'm not terribly surprised that JSH's posts have gone missing. That's part of his current standard operating procedure. But I doubt anyone else has been deleting their own posts. Certainly I haven't, at least.

I'm not really very familiar with how anything works at Google Inc. beyond their advanced search page. How does someone go about getting their posts back up? What should one do to keep this from happening again?

As far as I can see all the posts are still there. GG has been acting strange for a while though.

.