

Re: Unnamed posters in the NG

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2008-05/msg00823.html>

- From: Mensanator <mensanator@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 5 May 2008 16:01:19 -0700 (PDT)
-

On May 5, 5:35 pm, Mehran Basti <Basti...@xxxxxxx> wrote:

I'm afraid there is no-one with the authority to control them.

I'm not really familiar with the educational system in America. If that's your focus, perhaps you should set up some American newsgroups?

-- Richard
--

It is may be true that there is no-one with the authority to control them, practically or mechanically, but I am sure this is an intentions of the educational leaders involved in general control of educational system, like president of Drexel University.

But they only answer to the Illuminati.

Yes, once my New Math is taken off, and then I will be one of the proper persons to advise the authorities to fix some directions in educational matters.

Shouldn't that be IF your New Math takes off?

I have been in educational institutions on and off for more than two decades and I am perfectly familiar with their inner functioning apparatus.

Re: Unnamed posters in the NG

And yet, you suffer the delusion that you can change it.

I am not an insider

And will subsequently be ignored. You're not even getting the respect you think you deserve HERE. What makes you think educational institutions will listen to you?

and my unique research capabilities will allow me to put me into some judgment of curing this ailing American higher educational system.

Pull the other one.

Since I strongly believe the new science will affect many aspects of science and engraining textbooks and research.

As I said before, no one gives a fuck what you believe.

I am sure the government of the U.S.A. will find me useful for solving their ample problems.

Yeah, right. Oh, sorry, I forgot you don't understand sarcasm. The government is totally incompetent. Look at how they manage disasters and the wars they start.

Dr.M.Basti

Re: Unnamed posters in the NG