

Re: why does professor david c ullrich have to put people down to feel good about himself?

Re: why does professor david c ullrich have to put people down to feel good about himself?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.math/2008-12/msg00638.html>

---

- From: MoeBlee <jazzmobe@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 4 Dec 2008 17:17:47 -0800 (PST)
-

On Dec 4, 5:01 pm, Tim Smith <reply_in_gr...@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

In article
<6867f35e-2d52-48a0-b10f-17040fd9c...@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>,

lwal...@xxxxxxxx wrote:

And this 'breaking the bank' business is silliness. Right now, in the U.S. one can get a copy of Suppes's 'Axiomatic Set Theory' online for $8.78, tax and shipping included.

Thanks for the suggestion. I'm hoping to buy a textbook after the holidays, in January or early February, and I'll keep this post and suggested textbook/price in mind.

<<http://www.doverpublications.com/>>

You can get pretty much everything there that would be needed for a good undergraduate mathematics program, and probably enough for what would have been a good graduate program 30 years ago, without breaking the bank.

Yes, Dover is great. And especially by buying used copies online (or in used bookstores), one can get a riches of information for cheap.

And Dover now has Paul Cohen's book republished!

MoeBlee

.

Re: why does professor david c ullrich have to put people down to feel good about himself?