

Re: technical help needed

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.cardiology/2007-06/msg00053.html>

- From: Don Kirkman <donsno2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 04 Jun 2007 16:50:57 -0700
-

It seems to me I heard somewhere that Andrew B. Chung, MD/PhD wrote in article <1180947981.597468.110420@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>:

Web based stuff have the advantage of useability across multiple platforms, Oses, and workstations. Then there is the smokescreen of bogus IP addresses that web based stuff sometimes put out that really confuse the would-be cyberstalkers that hang out here.

Evidence that this is true?

The use of a "proper newsreader" would tie someone down to the PC/Mac where Agent is installed with those personal settings concerning subscribed groups, handle, email address, password, etc. This would not be good for someone being cyberstalked.

How Agent is installed and configured is up to the user; it can be left wide open, can be left at the default settings, or buttoned up very tightly for the paranoid. BTW, aren't you aware that other newsreaders also have personal settings concerning subscribed groups, handle, email address, password, etc.?

And Agent cannot be used on a Mac, so that's simply another non-sequitur. OTOH, many Linux users do run Agent as their preferred proper newsreader.

May GOD bless you in HIS mighty way (you will be hungrier when HE does).

May God remind you that you are not an authority on Agent or on newsreaders in general. You should have waited till you got the Word from the Holy Spirit. :-)

Re: technical help needed

Don Kirkman

.