Allegedly it is, but it's pretty much ruined by Chung.

That may very well be the one success in Chung's life. I am sure he takes great pride in that.

I use Forté Agent newsreader, and it has some great killfile abilities which I've put to good use here in the last half hour. I've blocked threads with any of the words Chung, Andrew, Prayer, God, Spirit, or Pray in the subject or author lines, and all of a sudden I see a nice, "normal" newsgroup without all those extraneous posts!

The ironic thing is that I'm a church-going Christian. But there is a time and a place for everything, and I came here for heart-health information and advice. I get my spiritual guidance in church on Sunday morning and don't need to be slammed over the head with Chung's Bible, interfering with my finding the information and advice that I need and came here to get.

Another ironic thing is that this newsgroup was organized mostly by medical people who wanted a place to share information and experiences about heart diseases (though the language of the documentation is clear that non–medical people, particularly patients, were expected to be among the users); Chung is the one who refuses to abide by the stated purpose in the organizing documentation. In his humble opinion his idiosyncratic theology overrides the interests and needs of other users.

Thank goodness for Agent's kill filters.

Amen and amen! :-)
