

Re: Microsoft updates: a bad thing?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2004-08/2639.html>

From: Joel M. Eichen (joeleichen_at_yahoo.com)

Date: 08/26/04

Date: Thu, 26 Aug 2004 11:39:18 -0400

Carabelli!

Send me e-mail and I will send back a jpg of the configuration.
(I do not have your e-mail).

Its under Control Panel ----> Maintenance -----> then see my jpg.

Joel

On Thu, 26 Aug 2004 15:09:49 GMT, "carabelli" <redslaz3@att.net.not> wrote:

>
>> Its possible to get malicious code by downloading NOTHING and opening
>> NO ATTACHMENTS, GIFS, etc.
>
>Or if you have a 16 yr old
>
>> THE FIX
>>
>> Its also simple to ROLL BACK to a previous operating system date (as I >> did to 07/31/2004) and eliminate the virus.
>>
>
>I'll bite, what OS, using a restore point? I have learned more about XP in >the last few weeks than I ever wanted to know.
>
>carabelli
>