

Re: CDT-5

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2004-12/4692.html>

From: Tony Bad (spamspamspam_at_bakedbeans.spam)

Date: 12/08/04

Date: Wed, 8 Dec 2004 14:33:33 -0500

<purple543210@yahoo.ca> wrote in message
news:1102533738.078620.260940@f14g2000cwb.googlegroups.com...
> It is bull that the insurance carriers force anyone to use any codes.
> They need to pay the claims based on what is done.
> for example you did a crown on #19 they need to pay for it regardless > of what their software says.

I found out recently that a lot of the data entry on these claims is done overseas! The claims are "read" by someone who may not even read english, and all they understand is the code. I have forgotten the "d" that is now supposed to proceed every code and got the claim back because it was "not a current code". Also, don't bother writing any notes on the claim, because the claims are often tossed out after the data entry people are done. I found this out when I asked someone at MET, well, didn't you read my note?

Grumble, grumble...

T