I'm not angry at all, just trying, as you, to make a point, that constantly repeating things and posting old info that can be outdated by now is silly. With Crohn's, new info becomes available and usually can change the info of the old . My dentist has changed his ways in a different things from what he did for me say 4 years ago or so. Things change, that is what science is about, learning and sometimes change. UM MOM Susan
