This is just a guess, but my guess is that the sudden flurry of new posts, the huge gaggle of new posters is partially a result of references to images within our posts. Yeah of course anyone can include the URL of the image within one's post but some of the http sites are stripping out references to images.

www.DentalCom.net does not strip them out and offers a link to the http site so people can view the images in real time. Others can view the image through a link.

I will post the link two ways .. embedded within the body using [i m g] tags and separately as a hyperlink.

Here is an example:

I think this is increasing traffic.

Joel

The embedded image CEREC! (This is not available o nthe 'net).

..

The hyperlink to same:
