Thank you to those to answered my question. It was very helpful. To those who looked at my post and only saw negative thoughts, I am sorry. I did not mean to come off sounding like I hated this community group. However, I did not feel that the group was answering the questions that it was supposed to. I was just trying to change the atmosphere a bit. My teacher advised to ask questions and hopefully influence the group we joined. However, how do you not expect me not to find this group negative when all I read is about dentist horror stories.
