CZ has no idea what we learned in dental school. He has no idea what we have learned since dental school. He does not understand oral infections or dental materials. He has simply gone to the fringes of the profession to find someone that supports his ideas. Dr.K has not shown anything to support his accusations.

There is some bad endo out there. Even with extra training and good technique it isn't 100% successful. It does not lead to bone infections that can only be found by.....well....the few 'enlightened individuals'.
