Dear insulting angry crank,

Dentists and oral surgeons usually try to communicate on a level that the patient can have some modicum of comprehension.

Your conversations with them would have little indication of their knowledge or experience.

It's probably good that you have this issue to obsess over. That saves people who might actually have contact with you in person a great deal of grief.

You are so far out in left field that you don't even need to pay for parking.

Respectfully,

Dartos

CZ has no idea what we learned in dental school. He has no idea what we have learned since dental school.

Re: The Dr. K Book

WRong!! I have a very good idea first hand from dealing with dentists and oral surgeons.
