

Re: The Dr. K Book

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2005-11/msg00787.html>

- From: drkulacz@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx
 - Date: 14 Nov 2005 06:57:04 -0800
-

Amatus Cremona wrote:

>>

>> You are calling me a liar.

>>

>

> Either that or severely mis-guided, poorly read, and ignorant of modern > research.

Yes. Severely mis-guided, poorly read, and ignorant of ALL research on this topic other than information censored and propogated from the ADA.

You have summed yourself up quite correctly.

RK

>

> --

> /

>

> Amatus

>

> /

> <drkulacz@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

> news:1131978906.136723.21820@xx

>>

>> Clinton wrote:

>>> Amatus Cremona wrote:

>>>>

>>>> >Amatus, all you can answer is " ridiculous." Again you prove my point >>>> >stated in my original post. What is so "ridiculous?"

>>>>>

>>>>

>>>> Wrong! you are not worth the time to argue with, as you will never >>>> participate in a true discussion.

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> Groupthink is really an ugly thing, ain't it!

Re: The Dr. K Book

>>

>> Amatus:

>>

>> I have attempted a discussion but you do not seem to want that.

>> You have it all wrong. This is a subject to learn about if we care >> about our patients.

>> If you want to blindly argue your opinion without having reviewed the >> research, then you should not be in this profession. You are treating >> human beings. The data has been around for 100 years regarding the >> effects of root canal teeth on systemic health in some people.

>> With periodontal disease getti