

Re: crown replacement – (UPDATE)

Source: <http://sci.tech–archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2005–12/msg00589.html>

- From: JimSocal <jimsocal@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 07 Dec 2005 08:33:01 GMT
-

On 6 Dec 2005 20:38:55 –0800, "bytor" <bytors_snowdog@xxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

>hey jimsocal, i was just reading new posts in your thread about >possibly needing root canal b4 a crown, and in there Steve Bornfeld >mentions the temporary cement approach as a possibility for your >situation! So this must not be that rare of a thing to do. I think >that good dentists are flexible and think of these types of options.
>Hopefully mine won't give me grief if I suggest this approach.

Right, I saw Dr. Bornfeld's post about that. It sounds like a great idea. We'll see how my dentist feels about it. Mine does not seem very flexible and kind of arrogant and might not like me making such a suggestion. But I'm going to do it anyway! (-;

Thanks for the suggestion. I figure posts like our's may help others in similar situations. They can google the archives at google.groups and if nothing else, at least they can see people with similar problems/questions/comments, and read these dentists' responses.

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: crown replacement – (UPDATE)
 - ◇ From: Amatus Cremona
- References:
 - ◆ crown replacement – (UPDATE)
 - ◇ From: bytor
 - ◆ Re: crown replacement – (UPDATE)
 - ◇ From: Mark & Steven Bornfeld
 - ◆ Re: crown replacement – (UPDATE)
 - ◇ From: bytor
 - ◆ Re: crown replacement – (UPDATE)
 - ◇ From: JimSocal
 - ◆ Re: crown replacement – (UPDATE)
 - ◇ From: bytor
 - ◆ Re: crown r