

Re: GUEST VIEW: The evidence that fluoride is harmful is overwhelming

Re: GUEST VIEW: The evidence that fluoride is harmful is overwhelming

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2006-05/msg00322.html>

- From: "nyscof" <nyscof@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 17 May 2006 15:26:46 -0700
-

Steven Bornfeld wrote:

Roman Bystrianyk wrote:

In my opinion, the evidence that fluoridation is more harmful than beneficial is now overwhelming and policy makers who avoid thoroughly reviewing recent data before introducing new fluoridation schemes do so at risk of future litigation.

I'm guessing that if what you say is true the lawyers should have more than enough to keep them busy. It should be easy to demonstrate that the agencies charged with making these decisions are wrong.
Go get 'em, tiger!

Steve

Here we go:

www.onlinelawyersource.com/fluoride-osteosarcoma/index.html

.