

Re: should I sue the dental clinic

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2006-08/msg00358.html>

- From: "Alexander Vasserman DDS" <purple543210@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 25 Jul 2006 20:32:54 -0700
-

jd023456

to fix this problem from scratch it will cost no more than $4000K
Show me the $$$$ in this case and please explain how it is going to hurt.

What are you going to do sue because you are missing a tooth and as a result your wife won't have sex with you and it is causing undue stress. Get real. Again good luck finding a lawyer on contingency for 1/3 of $4000.00. and guess what he will still have to come up with the third to fix the problem and by the time the trial is over the cost to repair this missing tooth is going to go up. If people are going to engage in these frivolous lawsuits, the malpractice insurance rates will go up (just give an insurance company an excuse to raise their rates, they are worse than the oil companies) resulting in higher fees for everyone so that people like you can bitch more.

jd023456 wrote:

Sue the Son of a Bitch!!! Get a lawyer that works on a contingency fee basis if you can and GO FOR THE FUCKING JUGULAR!!! These assholes understand only 1 thing--$$$$--so HIT them where it hurts them the most--in the wallet! At least make a phone call or two--what would it hurt? Of course asking a newsgroup that consists of a lot of dentists is like asking the fox to leave the chickens alone with the door open and no guard!

Tex wrote:

On Tue, 25 Jul 2006 02:11:48 GMT, Steven Bornfeld
<dentalwinmung@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

I want to sue them for their own mistake causing me to lose a tooth. If so how can i start off, the x-rays are all in their hands.

Re: should I sue the dental clinic

Timmy

You can start off by bending over and kissing your ass good-bye! Ha ha! Then you can make a decision to kiss your teeth good-bye or kiss your money good-bye.

Or you can get a lawyer and then you can kiss it all good-bye!

Even though it seems like the deck is stackedit really is! Your best bet is to do like others suggest....kiss the Dentist's ass and hopefully they'll cut you a break and maybe you'll win