

Re: Implant -- Do I choose Oral Surgeon or Periodontist?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2006-08/msg00722.html>

- From: mr_ravi_patil@xxxxxxxxx
 - Date: 27 Aug 2006 01:37:07 -0700
-

JimSocal wrote:

I'm not a dentist or oral surgeon, but a patient who did a lot of research before getting implants.

I think the #1 factor you should look at is EXPERIENCE; and secondly if that experience has led to good results.

Thanks for the reply.

I believe that you are the same poster that went to a university for implant.

Even though the dental schools are supervised by dentists, aren't you taking a risk by having students (without the important experience you mentioned) perform transplants on you?

And is it difficult to get an appointment, i.e., long waiting lists, at these dental schools?

.