

My two upper front teeth are not aligned anymore.

My two upper front teeth are not aligned anymore.

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.dentistry/2006-11/msg00210.html>

---

- From: "Rock G" <rockgnome234@xxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 20 Nov 2006 02:34:43 -0800
-

My two upper front teeth have always been in perfect position until this year alone. I can't tell which tooth shifted but one tooth is out a bit and one tooth is in a bit. It's not crooked or anything. It just shifted forward or backwards. I can feel it with my tongue or when I run my fingernail across them.

I am now 25 years old. Is this normal? I don't have a lot of money so I can't exactly rush along to the dentist but I am getting concerned because if this type of thing doesn't happen, am I facing the possibility that my teeth may continue to shift?

.