Yes, it is true, but then I posted about that when it happened, in fact I have printed out in hard copy each and every time she tried to initiate conversations with me from that day to the present. I also have a hard copy of the website which was posted elsewhere on the internet, with the map on it to my home and places where she had found my posts, like Talk: Abortion. I have found another NG where my residential address was prominently posted under a spoofed email addy, and the people in that NG were saying that I have a great case for defamation, especially if I lost any business over the horse molester comments.

TaTa Kali, have a great day.
