Date: January 30, 2006

Time: 11:22 a.m.

I am preparing to move so all day I have been cleaning out the house and packing up my belongings which gets to be quite a task. I decided to take a break, walk the dog and get some fresh air. The last 2 days we've had considerable chemtrail spraying but today was exceptionally clear and it was a nice change from the hazy chemtrail clouds.

After only a minute or less I noticed a few white objects almost directly above my head and a little North. I immediately grabbed my camera which only took 10 seconds or so but by the time I got back there were more than 20 visible objects. Then I realized more started to appear as if out of nowhere and there were at least 50 or maybe more. I started taping the center of the cluster with my camera on a tripod and the rest is history.

The objects moved in unison with varying geometric shapes made throughout the fleet. I took into consideration that these could be balloons but these were very, very high. If they were balloons they would have to be huge to withstand the pressure. I can't say for certain how high they were but my experience tells me it's higher than it should be for party balloons.

No wind at ground level, clear, and 60 degrees.

One more note. December of 2004 I taped a similar fleet. It was the same time of the day (around 11:15am), same weather conditions, same direction, and most importantly I noticed 2 formations just like the 2004 sighting. I will check that out and get back to you. The objects disappeared about 20 minutes later seemingly one at a time just like 2004 and the final geometric shape was a diamond-shape formation.

I am going to send you 2 videos. Please let me know what you think.

Give my best and have a good night.
