Part 1:

Send a snail mail letter in order to get cooperation in finding the ISP of the perpetrator:

Google Inc.

E. Bayshore Pkwy

Mountain View CA 94043

United States

Oslo, November 4, 2004

Dear Google,

Someone has used your services in the commission of an alleged crime, and I would like to have Google's snail mail address of your legal department in order to present Google with the evidence.

What we require from Google is the address of the ISP of the person who committed the alleged crime, so we will be able to take legal action against this person(s).

Please reply at your earliest convenience, the crime involves several criminal offences, including the public calling for assassination of a specific person.

I respectfully ask a quick response because if someone complies with this public call for assassination, and Google has delayed a response, then Google itself has become partly responsible for such an outcome.

Best regards,

Frank de Groot
