I think one person here hogs this board to themselves and the rest of you go along with it and applaud her. It makes this board worthless to a newbie trying to get some help about Lyme. All I hear is long rambling diatribes about crimes none of it making any sense at all.

Just ignore threads you don't care about. I understand that for a newbie this board is confusing and LymeNet will seem so much better and in a way it is better. But when you have learned more and you are smart, then you will learn LymeNet isn't that good as it seems and this board isn't that bad as it seems. :)

HINT: use google to search through all posts of this group. It does contain useful information.
