It's more like, Take the plank out of your own eye, before I you insist I take the speck out of mine.

It's more like, you have done more harm than good, and no amount of your returning, scathing venom, will erase your "errors" when it is your time to account for how you spent your life.

I believe you would be familiar with:

"Therefore guard against profitless grumbling, and from calumny withhold your tongues;
For a stealthy utterance does not go unpunished,
and a lying mouth slays the soul."

Because that's from the old testament.

Kathleen
